HANDICAP. The air was close and clinging at Gravesend yesioriny, and the extensive assemblage of heated spec-tators suffered no small discomfort, both from the weather and from the task of chasing programmes. the racing there was plenty of excitement. Kingston was defeated by Judge Morrow in the Second special in the comparatively slow time of 1:55 3-4. track was extremely fast, as Rosa H.'s time of 1 :16 1-4 in the first race made clear. Every observer of the race was convinced that the defeat of Kingston was due wholly to Hamilton's bad riding. Judge Morrow went to the front and made the pace all the the jockeys on the other horses foolishly letting him get a long lead, even when the pace was not Where was Murphy's much-vaunted judgment pace? He was on Peter, a rater and sprinter, but he pulled Peter out he race in the first slow mile. There was a crazy tip on Montana, who was ridden by Taral, but ntana came in last. However, he was very badly ridden by Taral, who for once exhibited no judgment at all, a remarkable defect, indeed, for him. He rly chocked Montana to death in the first part of the race, strangling all the spirit and speed out of him. Even Peter outran him in the homestretch. Murphy and Taral made a desperate finish for third money and Murphy got it. Hamilton foolishly kept Kingston far in the rear, while Judge Morrow, at even weights with Kingston, was remping along easily far in front. the homestretch Hamilton closed the big gap to suddenly. Kingston got up to Judge Morrow and a furlong from the finish was leading Judge Morrow a neck. But Judge Morrow responded well to Covington's whip, and after Hamilton had pulled up, suposing that he had Judge Morrow beaten, the latter orse railled valiantly and coming again with a rush, defeated Kingston by a head. Hamilton can think of nothing but his wife and his expected heir in these days, and he is utterly unfit to ide. The Board of Control ought to suspend his loense until his child is born. Then he may recover

Michael F. Dwyer lost heavily on Kingston, putting moment. He had few sympathizers. In fact, most of those present were delighted to hear of his losses. They have not forgiven him for starting Kingston against Tenny in the First Special, when Kingston could hardly raise a gallop. And then the Dwyer policy of spoiling racing merely in order to spite the poolrooms, because they refuse to pay a tribute of $4,000 per day to the Brooklyn Jockey Club, grows more unpopular daily. Curt Gunn carried the highest weight, 118 pounds in the Holly Handicap for two-year-olds. He was the favorite, and won handsomely. R. Williams rede him far better than in any previous race. He did not get badly, and he did not permit him to run at the tail-end of the procession for three furlongs or more, as has been his custom heretofore. When he rode Curt Gunn in this way he was forced to flog the gallant colt all the way up the homestretch to recover the ground which the rider's own folly had lost. Yesterday he got off fairly, kept the colt in a good place, and in the last furlong Curt Gunn shot to the front with that splendid finishing burst of speed of his, and won y. Fred Lee got much the best of the start, led until Curt Gunn passed him in the final hundred yards. He saved second place, while Charade was third. Lamplighter was backed with great confidence by Captain Brown and his friends, but was never dangerous. Huron has gone back lamentably since he ran in the Futurity, and St. wreck. Neither colt was ever con-Curt Gunn is a good colt, better than any two-year-old in the country, except His Highness and Yorkville Belle. The time was 1:15.

It was amazing that no inquiry was made into the unning of Rosa H. This filly ran well at Sheepshead Bay. On September 19, at Gravesend, carrying nds, she was unplaced to Chesapeake (125 pounds), G. W. Cook (115) and Tormentor (115). The time was 1:15 1-2. On September 22 she was again unplaced, at the same distance, six furlongs, Contribution (112 pounds) winning, with Gold Dollar (105) second and Lima (112) third. Rosa H. carried 112 pounds. Time-1 :15 1-4. Yesterday in the first race Rosa H., carrying 113 resterday in the first race Rosa H., carrying 113 pounds, won very easily at the same distance in the wonderful time (the fastest of the meeting), of 1:13-1-4. The favorite, Terrifier, ran second, with Tormentor third. Now, W. B. Jennings, owner of Rosa H., may have the most satisfactory explanation imaginable, of such blind staggers of form as this, but it was the plain duty of the judges to get his explanation, and have it typewritten and generally distributed. Everyone would like to read it.

Russell, marvelons to relate, was in good humor in the second race, and with only 103 pounds upparried off the second race lightly and neath, with the favorite, Strathmenth, second Time —1 154 3-4, just a second faster than that in which Kingston was beaten by Judge Morrow. Tural worked desparately on Senorita, but could get only third place.

A TRAINER'S NOTES FROM THE TRACKS. Gravesend, Sept. 26.-The trainers, superintendent and all concerned are praying for rain, as the track is getting deep and so dusty that the horses cannot be distinguished through the clouds that rise when the herses are being worked. The work done this morning was of the moderate order. Hardy Campbell had M. F. Dwyer's horses out. Banquet and Raceland were given a strong fallop. Both went freely and should finish the season, if not raced with too much weight on their backs. Airplant is in fair shape, and with a jockey like Taral would win a race or two this fall. Kingston is not himself, but looked well bodily in his race to-day. Hamilton clearly demonstrated that his brain has been evertaxed, and he is run down through everwork. He needs a vacation or a night or two with the boys, so as to throw care to the winds, as he has been throwing races to the selling-platers. Everybody knows that Hamilton has not been riding good races. He knows it himself, but all jockeys have their run of bad luck. But his form will come back to him after a rest.

Inverness, the imported three-year-old that cost Marcus Daly a large sum of money in England, may never wear the colors of the copper king, as he has not taken kindly to American tracks. He has shown remarkable speed in some of his trials, and is superbly milt, and should make a grand stock horse. Daly says, when the horses show that they can't win, sell them for what they will fetch under the hammer, and if they race for the other fellow, all right. He says that he is willing to buy good ones whenever they can be purchased at a reasonable figure. Mr. Daly intends to breed on an extensive scale, and says that the ranges of Montana cannot be excelled as a breeding country. If he secures the best and breeds them to the best he is sure to be successful, as the winners of great stakes seldom come from $200 brood mares.

It is a singular fact that one American turfman has buy every high-priced horse that has been sold in England in the last ten years, but never secures one, as he is just a thousand pounds or so short of the price the other fellow puts up. He should stay at home, where the high-class ones fetch dollars in-

John Mackey, Mr. Haggin's agent, is in the city, attending to some business details concerning the great Rancho del Paso sales of 1892.

Jack Joyner is increasing his stable. He bought Lester to-day, but it must have been with some other oney, as he is not giving $6,000 for that kind man's money, as he is not giving $8,000 for that kind with his Chesapeake money. "Joe" Vendig purchased Kenwood for $3,000 with his game leg thrown in. Should Kenwood win one race for the commissioner he will be more than even, and can sell him to W. C. Daly. Everything sold brought good prices.

The De Lacy light infantry are a hard lot to beat and keep the Plakerton heavies on the move all the time. They catch an occasional ball. Mutte should take a trip to the track. He could pick up a nine that might win a game. The poolroom reen have another scheme for Monday, but the game is hardly worth the candle, as there are but three more days, and De Lacy has been talking through his bat the last four days.

In the entire history of racing there never was so much excitement over an old hat as ther has been since Pinkerton caught De Lacy on Friday.

BUSINESS IN THE POOLROOMS.

Peter De Lacy's fertility of resource is appa-Yesterday it was supposed that Philip Dwyer and Robert Pinkerton had struck a final and crushing blow at their enemy and shattered his plan of campaign for good and all. Yet when 2 o'clock, struck Mr. De Lacy was in the ring again alert, smiling and confident. As he is dashed to the ground he springs up again with the elasticity of an India He has evidently hit upon some new method of outwitting the track men. The first four races came and passed in the poolrooms quickly, oothly and regularly as in the days when the chiefs smoked the pipe of peace in each other's company. The correct list of entries for the first race was on De Lacy's blackboard at noon, and within twenty minutes after Rosa H. passed the post his cashier was paying out on winning tickis. same hopeful conditions prevailed right up to the fourth race. Of course it was impossible for scouts to get the names of the jockeys, except in the fourth race, where the personality of each rider was familiar to the man in the birdcage, but in all other respects the information was complete.

Having finished work on the fourth race, the poolroom men were content to take a recess, and care fully let the fifth and sixth races alone. Probably by this omission the city players of "form" were rather the galners than losers, although it is certain that both Galindo and Miss Belle would have been heavily backed.

GREAT RACING BOOKED FOR TERRE HAUTE. Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 26.-During the last we has been announced from several racing points that Hal Pointer and Direct would race over this or tha particular track. It can be stated positively that the only race between Hal Pointer and Direct this season will take place here October 6, when the two fast went a quarter in 281-2 at Cambridge City last Wednesday, and as "Ed" Gers writes President Ijams that Hal Pointer is in fine fettle for the race of his life, there is sure to be some record-smashing. Robert Bonner, owner of Maud S. (2.08 3.4), and a party of New-York people will be here to see Nancy Hanks try to rob Maud S. of her laurels. The 2:18 trot with twelve high-class entries contains a field of the fastest ones that ever came together.

MONBARS LOWERS HIS RECORD. Cambridge City, Ind., Sept. 26.—To-day closed a suc-cessful meeting on this course. Monbars, driven by Budd Doble, lowered his record half a second, making the mile in 2:1912. Direct paced an exhibition mile in 2:0712.

POOR KICKERS AT PRINCETON. Princeton, N. J., Sept. 26.—The football men have been practicing every day this week, but the fifty men who appeared in football suits for practice this afternoon were as clumsy and lifeless as at first. There is a lot of good, heavy, strong material, but it will require an immense amount of work and coaching to mould it into a championship team. There is one direction, however, in which the outlook is favorable, and that is that the men are willing to work and to be taught. This afternoon "Aleck" Moffat, '84, the great goal-kicker; Clarke, '87; Captain Poe, of last great goal-kicker, Charles, 67, Captain Poe, of last year's team, and Jesse Riggs, were on the field teach-ing the men to kick and to fall on the hall. Several alumni from New-York watched the play, and were much disappointed over the small number of experi-enced players now in college.

THE AMERICAN FIVE-MILE RECORD BROKEN. Chicago, Sept. 23.—In the presence of 4,000 people, C. W. Dorntge, of Buffalo, at the Parkside track to-day, put up a new American record for five miles in competition, and came within fifteen seconds of the five-mile ecord made against time. His time for five miles was 18:57. The former record was 14:20. Dorntge's work was done in the last race of the day, the five-mile handican were five starters: C. D. Cutting and W. S. Young at 350 yards, N. H. Van Sicklen at 300 yards, H. C. Knisely at 275 yards, and C. W. Dorutge at the pole.

GLANCES HERE AND THERE

There is in a certain state a man, not so well known as he thinks he is, who has fervent political aspirations. In the pursuit of honors from his city, his State, and perhaps the Nation, for his ambition is not ever-modest, he has become very cordial with every one whom he meets. He does a great deal of handshaking, wears a perpetual smile, and anxiously in-quires after the health of every voter's family. He has become so fascinated with this principle of "leving his neighbor" that he lives up to it even when be so sure that there are voters in the family. He visited the State prison the other day, and showed great solicitude for the moral and physical welfare of the men under sentence. Of course he did not forget their families. One of the prisoners in this place is serving a life sentence for the murder of his wife. When the visitor reached this man's cell he talked with him, warmly encouraging him with friendly words, and then capped the cliniax by saying; "And your wife, my poor fellow, how does she bear up under your and her misfortunes?"

Three young women, who evidently did not live in low-York, went into a theatre recently and bought seats for a matinee performance. This was in the forenoon, and in just thirty minutes they were back at the theatre. "Has the play begun?" one asked. Doers won't be open for two hours yet," answered the busy man behind the glass window of the box office. They went away, but returned in twenty minutes, then in eighteen more, then again in fifteen and so on. Finally the time came for opening the doors and they were not on hand, but not more than two minutes later they hurried in. "Gracious," one cried, and then they rushed up to the long suffering man in the box-office. "Oh, dear," she cried breathlessly, "and are we late?" "Not at all," answered the man, gravely, "you have one minute"—they all made a rush for the inner part of the theatre—"and one hour," cried the trate man after them.

THE AVAILABLE CURRENCY IN THE TREASURY. Washington, Sept. 26 (Special).-Secretary Foster aid to-day: "The paragraph sent to the press throughout the country that there was less than $1,000,000 in currency available for business in the vaults of the Treasury at Washington, with what follows it, is meaningless jargon. No Treasury official could have given such information, for the reason that it is not only one of the places where money of the Government is kept. Funds might be low here and plentiful elsewhere. After paying $17,500,000 of 41-2 per cents, the Treasury has in its vaults $91,000,000 in excess of the $100,000,000 gold reserve against which there are contingent liabilities of about $46,000,000."

The $91,000,000 in excess of the gold reserve re ferred to by the Secretary is made up as follows: Contingent liabilities, 5 per cent fund for National Bank redemptions, $5,442,000; outstanding checks and drafts, $6,284,000; disbursing officers' balances, $31,115,000; agency accounts, $3.768,000, total, $40,009,000; net balance, composed of fractional currency, deposits in National banks, etc., $44,207,000; total, $00,816,000.

GRAPE-GROWERS ON THE HUDSON ANGRY. The main shipments are from Ulster, Greene, Columbia, Dutchess and Orange coun Thousands of crates are sent into New-Yor nightly, the Poughkeepsie Transportation Company's boats carrying the heaviest londs. Should a member of that Board visit the vineyards of Ulster County in the present state of feeling he would be mobbed. People in the Hudson River Valley have been eating sprayed grapes for years, and no one can tell of a single case of sickness therefrom. From eight to ten arloads of grapes are shipped nightly to Boston and other points east, but the grape scare is expected to seriously interfere with the Eastern traffic. The grape-growers are combining, and it looks as if there will be a general mass-meeting of growers either here or at Kingston, looking to the institution of a suit for dam-

HOW MUCH DO WE EXPORT?

WHY THE STATISTICS ARE IMPERFECT.

A TALK WITH CHIEF BROCK - PROBABLY $30,000,000 OF EXPORTS ANNUALLY TO CANADA AND MEXICO OF WHICH NO OFFICIAL RECORD IS MADE-A LAW WHICH AN-

TEDATES RAILROADS-REASONS WHY IT SHOULD BE SPEEDILY AMENDED.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] Washington, Sept. 26 .- "I most carnestly hope that the incoming Congress will cure the defects in the existing law relating to the collection of statistics of our domestic exports" said Chief Brock of the Bureau of Statistics to a Tribune correspondent to-day. "What are the defects?" Major Brock was asked.

"Well, the law does not require that manifests of domestic goods shipped to foreign countries on railway cars or other land vehicles shall be furnished to our customs officers. The present law was enacted, substantially in its present form, in 1820, more than seventy years ago, long before the building of railways, and at a time when our trade with Canada and Mexico was not a commercial factor of any im-All our commerce in those days was portance. carried on by means of sailing vessels. provided in that law that before any clearance was granted for any vessel bound to a foreign place the owners, shippers or consignees of the cargo should deliver to the collector of the port of departure manifests of the same, setting forth the kinds and quantities of the articles composing the cargo, the value of the total quantity of each kind of said articles, and the place of destination. The figures compiled from ther manifests are the material from which our statistics of domestic exports are compiled, and anybody can see at once that those statistics must be accomplete and imperfect, because a very large proportion of exports to Canada and Mexico is carried by land vehicles, to which the law does not apply."

"To what extent are you able to ascertain the quantities and values of exports to those two countries

"It is difficult, indeed impossible, to tell. We do the best we can by studying the Canadian and Mexican official tables of imports from the United States, but for these of course we are compelled to states, but for these of course we may are not wait for some time, and when obtained they are not always satisfactory; they may be tolerably correct

This informatio is necessarily incomplete and imperfect."

"Have you ever made an estimate of the probabl amount and value of the exports each year, to Canada and Mexico which are not reported to the Treasury

"I believe that the value of the annual exports to those countries which is not included in our tables of domestic exports now amounts to $30,000,000 c more per annum, and that it is increasing. A year more ago, Galusha A. Grow, of Pennsylvania, wi is largely interested in shipments of coal from Penn sylvania to Canada, called my attention to the statistic on that subject, and said that the exports were much greater than the official reports showed. aid to him: 'Mr. Grow, if you will cause manifes of all your shipments of coal to be sent to the ollector of customs at the point of departure from the United States, so that they can be included in the official returns, I have no doubt that there will appear to have been a substancial gain in our exports of that commodity.' From that time Mr. Grow seeme o take less interest in the statistics of coal export That is only one of many cases of a like to Canada. ort which have come under my observation."

"Has the attention of Congress been called to the matter 1"

"Oh, yes, repeatedly, not only in the annual, re ports of this Burean, but by official and personal appeals and representations to members of the proper ommittees of that body. Drafts of bills were pared and submitted to committees of the last three ongresses and one of them was favorably reporte by the House Committee on Commerce, but nothing ever came of it. There is no politics in the proposed neasure and there is no reason why every legislator should not favor it, but thus far it has been impossible to awaken interest in the subject, which is ver-increasing importance."

In his annual reports for 1889 and 1890, Major Brock urgently recommended the proposed legisla-tion. He called attention to the special importance of "full and accurate statistics" of our trade with Canada and Mexico, "as our trade relations with these countries are frequently the subject of treaty nego-tiations and legislation" and to the fact that both Canada and Mexico collect and publish statistics of their exports to conclusion he added:

It does not appear that it would impose a greathardship upon persons exporting goods to a forelegantity over railways to furnish information in reactor the kinds, quantities, and values thereof than now imposed upon them when exporting goods vessels. It is believed that, after a brief experient with a law which will remedy the defects in expessions that the statement of the content of the content of the content of the content of the commerce. conclusion he added:

There is good reason to believe that the Mexican statistics of imports cannot be depended upon to show the exports of domestic merchandise from the United States to that country. In a report dated August 10, which will soon be published by the Department of State, Consul Fechet, of Picdras Negras, Mexico of State, Consul Fechet, of Feches, of the total im-remarks that the relative proportions of the total im-ports from Europe and the United States cannot be accurately fixed, "as the entries at the Mexican customs do not show clearly the country of origin." From the same report it appears that with the exception of the record of the bonded shipments from the United States for the benefit of drawback, amounting for the year 1890 to $84,283, no statistical data are obtainable to determine with accuracy the total value of American exports entering Mexico and Piedras Negras. Consul Fechet estimates that the total value was $4.314,380, an increase of $615,633 over the preceding year, but details are obtainable cover only $1.571.420, or about thirty-six per cent of the total. He adds: "There remains $2,742,-000 of estimated United States exports for which there are no data to show kind or value."

The above figures represent values in the coin of the United States, and if they are correct, more than one-third of all the exports-$12,666,108-from this country to Mexico last year was entered at the interior town of Piedras Negras.

Additional evidence that the official statistics of exports from the United States to Mexico are incomplete and imperfect is furnished by the Mexican official returns of imports by countries for the year ended June 30, 1889. Minister Ryan, who transmitted these returns, did not say whether the values were expressed in United States coin or Mexican coin. The figures show that the total imports from this country In that year amounted to $22,660,421. declared exports of domestic merchandise from the United States to Mexico during the year ended June 30, 1880, amounted to only $10,886,288, according to the returns made to the Eurcau of Statistics by American officers of customs. If the value given by Minister Ryan is in United States coin, it follows is too small by $11,783,133; in other words, it covers that the total in the United States official statistics less than one-half of the actual exports. If the value is expressed in Mexican dollars, now valued at eighty cents each in United States coin, the deficiency in the United States official total still amounts to about $7,250,000.

The following statement will show at a glance th relative proportions of our imports from and exports which were transported by water and by land, according to the reports of the tatistics:

Year ended June 30, 1889.
Transported by

It will be observed that the percentage of exports

It will be observed that the percentage of exports transported by land vehicles is six to mine per cent less than the imports transported by water. When the fact is considered that a large proportion of our exports to Mexico are produced at places remote from the seaboard but near by and convenient of necess to great railway lines which enter that country from the United States, it seems apparent that the percentage of exports carried by land must caual if not considerably exceed that transported by water. It is clearly exceed that transported by water it is clearly exceed that transported by water. It is clearly exceed that transported by water to be amended and that such action cannot be taken too speedily. Many persons must remember how the United states was over reached in the matter of the Hallfax award, mainly because of a death of correct statistics and accurate information in this country. The old reciprocity treaty with Canada cannot have been forgotten, a treaty by which the United States also surfered on account of a lack of correct information and accurate trade statistics when it was negotiated. Canada now seems anxious to enter into another reciprocal commercial arranspoent with the United States, and negotiations with Mexico for an agreement of the same nature are now in progress. Both of these facts strongly emphasize the importance—indeed the prime necessity—of such action by Congress.

DEATH OF OTTO WITTE.

Otto Witte, a former Bridge trustee and a wellknown German Republican, died on Thursday at his home, No. 412 Herkimer-st., Brooklyn. He was born in Prussia in 1831, and came to this country when he was of age. He was employed by a banking firm in New-York, and afterward became connected with the Belletristiches Journal," a German literary weekly. Later he returned to the banking business, and was connected with the firm of Hogen & Billings when it falled in 1885.

He was appointed a Bridge trustee in 1881 and served for six years. The latter part of the time he was treasurer, succeeding John II. Prentice, and he also acted as secretary for a time. He was a trustee of the Germania Savings Bank from 1880 to the time of his death. He was also a member of the Germania last two years he had been a Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue under Collector Nathan. Mr. Witte was always a stanch Republican. He left a wife and daughter and an adopted son. The funeral will take place this afternoon to the German Evangelical Church in Schermerhorn-st., of which Mr. Witte was a trustee.

A NAVY ENGINEER TALKS ABOUT HAWAII.

Ealtimore, Sept. 26 (Special).-Professor W. F. C. Hasson, assistant engineer United States Navy, and late associate professor of applied mechanics at the Johns Hopkins University, is here on his wedding trip. He was married three months ago at Honolulu. to Miss Newman, daughter of Paul Newman, late Atborney-General to King Kalakana. Professor Hasson has been detached from the Johns Hopkins, and ordered on duty at Mare Island. He regrets leaving the University, as he has many friends among the faculty. In speaking of the condition of affairs in Hawaii, he said that the many rumors of political changes there vere all canards. The islands were prospering, and the natives and sugar-farm owners all were satisfied with the kindly but firm rule of the Queen. A large part of the population favor annexation to the United States, and that is the only contingency, in his opinion, which may prevent the Queen's continuance on the
